IMAGINATION

9:35 PM	Tenet Ruhi Pawer (14) & Willa Rock (14)	Story: In the beginning of the piece, it starts with one flow of time and multiplies into more of the same flow. As we move through the piece, some parts of the strand break into many different branches of time. The dancers in this piece represent the movement and vulnerability of time. Each person starts off in the same surge. As the dance progress, each starts to individually branch off into their own motion of time. By the end of the dance, each individual is their own. In a world where time flows both forwards and backwards, any movement made can dictate the fabric of time. Tenet. If you spell it backwards or forwards..it's the same.
9:38 PM	Die With A Smile Beatriz Lampert (15)	Story: The emotions here are heavy with memory. There's a tender sadness, as if the dancer is reliving moments from the past, laughter, love, and heartbreak all washing over at once. It feels like a private goodbye, filled with both warmth and sorrow. The smile is soft, touched by tears, carrying the weight of everything that has been cherished and lost.
9:41 PM	Abracadabra Carmella Patterson (15)	Story: This is a dance that will make you believe it's real, but the illusions will allow you to seat on the edge of your seat because of all the bold energy and transitions.
9:44 PM	Lately Dowlen Waldrop (14)	Story: This dance is my story—my heart, my struggles, and my deepest dream. Set to Stevie Wonder's "Lately," it reflects the vulnerability, strength, and passion that have shaped my journey with dance. I wasn't born a natural dancer. I was pigeon-toed and needed physical therapy just to learn how to walk straight. Along the way, I've battled injuries—breaking my kneecap, my knuckle, and chipping my thigh bone—and I've been told I'd never be good enough, that I should give up. But my love for dance has always been stronger than any obstacle. For over five years, I've chased one goal: to become an Intrigue Assistant. That dream has fueled my growth, my perseverance, and my belief that hard work and heart can overcome anything. This piece is about that love—the heartbreak, the healing, and the joy of never giving up. Every step is a testament to the passion that keeps me moving forward and to the hope that my dream is within reach.
9:48 PM	Nothing's New Olivia Ruiz (14) & Sophia Ruiz (13)	Story: Sometimes in life, it feels like things just stay the same, that "Nothing's New." We are continuously coming back to the same place in life. We are more comfortable and at ease when we know what is going to happen. Sometimes, however, it can be good to step outside of your box and discovery new things when "Nothing's New."

IMAGINATION (continued)

9:51 PM	Bond Olivia Mackenzie (16)	Story: This piece encapsulates the stealthy grace and the high society attitude of the James Bond movies. These spies are on a mission, and be careful, they may disappear in the blink of an eye.
9:54 PM	I Have Considered The Lillies Mikayla Gutierrez (16)	We always want what we don't have.
9:57 PM	How It Ends Will Holt (17) & Sky Russell (16)	Story: Often times we carry old versions of ourselves like armor. But sometimes the comforts we protect ourselves with can hold us back. Finding the courage it takes to let go is a beautiful chance to embrace change and step forward. Endings are not just about loss. They are beginnings, too.
10:01 PM	Grito Seco Gabriela Chua Velásquez (14)	Story: This dance is about powerful women; not loud in voice, but loud in spirit. They move with purpose, even when the path is unclear. Each step in the choreography shows a quiet hunger: the need to grow, to rise, to become something more. But this is not a dance of answers; it's a dance of questions. What are we reaching for? What do we truly want? Sometimes we don't know, and that is the beauty. The search itself becomes the art. Through, strength, softness, and breath this piece is about the women who are always becoming, never finished and always reaching.
10:04 PM	Wait A Minute Nora Soli (16)	Story: this piece is inspired by the beautiful dancers in it. a lot of these dancers i have just met and have worked so willingly with my choreography, and seeing their strengths and different dance backgrounds have inspired this piece so much. bringing this piece together, working on my first imagination piece and using such a unique song was at first very daunting but these dancers and even intrigue as a convention itself have inspired my style and choreographic vision so much that i wanted to show all of those elements in my imagination piece.
